To sum it up, this is who I am in my personal life

I love the simple things in life and am always content with what I have. I cherish moments of happiness on my own and have a penchant for smiling and exploring the world through travel. I find happiness in reading books that inspire personal growth, shaping my aspirations to become a better human being and a capable leader. Fishing and cultivating crops are additional passions, rooted in my upbringing in a small village in the Khulna district. The plight of poverty brings tears to my eyes, and the specter of violence causes deep concern. I am a firm believer in peace, aspiring for a future where the world is free from poverty, hunger, and war. I envision a world where access to food and education is universal and free for everyone. As a human being, I am driven to work for the betterment of humanity, aspiring for a world characterized by purity in every aspect. I have visited Italy, France, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium & India.

My Preferred Job

❖ I will prefer managerial job positions since I have done it previously and experience on that last 7 years.
